

IESBA Post-Implementation Review (PIR) Survey

Responding to Non-Compliance with Laws and Regulations (NOCLAR®)

Introduction

This survey is only applicable to respondents that have adopted or use or benefit from the Responding to Non-Compliance with Laws and Regulations \(NOCLAR\) provisions in the International Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants \(including International Independence Standards\) (the Code). Sections 5260 and 5360 as contained in the International Ethics Standards for Sustainability Assurance \(including International Independence Standards\) (IESSA), and conforming amendments to Sections 260 and 360 arising from the development of the IESSA, are outside the scope of this survey and only become effective in December 2026.

1. The International Ethics Standards Board for Accountants (IESBA) is conducting a post-implementation review (PIR) of the NOCLAR provisions in Sections 260 and 360 of the Code.
2. This survey seeks to obtain input from a broad range of stakeholders to enable the IESBA to determine:
 - (a) Whether the NOCLAR provisions have achieved their intended purpose by identifying:
 - (i) Benefits from applying the provisions; and
 - (ii) Any practical challenges or questions regarding their implementation, including whether they are being consistently understood and applied; and
 - (b) What actions, if any, are needed by the IESBA to address identified matters.
3. The responses received will be analyzed for purposes of providing feedback to the IESBA and in developing recommendations for any actions.
4. Recognizing that some respondents may wish to discuss certain NOCLAR or NOCLAR-related matters on a confidential basis instead of documenting them in writing when responding to this survey, respondents are welcome to reach out to the IESBA Project Team (email jeanneviljoen@ethicsboard.org and kamleung@ethicsboard.org) to discuss such matters confidentially. In such circumstances, respondents are requested to discuss the matters on an anonymized basis.
5. The survey comment period starts on April 1 and ends on July 30.

Survey Responses to be Made Public

6. Unless confidentiality is specifically requested, respondents' submissions will be considered a matter of public record and will be posted to the IESBA's website. Where confidentiality is requested, respondents are nonetheless requested to provide any detailed input on an anonymized basis.
7. Some questions ask for details, examples or sharing of relevant reports or materials. Respondents are requested to provide such information on an anonymized basis.

8. Respondents to the survey are asked to provide their responses only on the questions applicable to the stakeholder group to which they belong:

- Yes, (Where possible, please provide details such as (i) general nature of the NOCLAR, (ii) to whom it was communicated, and (iii) how the matter has been addressed (information provided may be anonymized))
- No

11. What benefits have you experienced as a result of the application of the local NOCLAR provisions? (Please explain the basis for your response, e.g., you feel better equipped to hold a conversation on a NOCLAR matter with management or those charged with governance of your employing organization; the standard was helpful in guiding you as to how to respond to a NOCLAR or suspected NOCLAR matter?)

12. Which of the local NOCLAR provisions have you found most challenging to apply when responding to a NOCLAR or suspected NOCLAR? (Please provide details)

13. Have you used your employing organization's whistleblowing policy in responding to a NOCLAR or suspected NOCLAR? If so, why did you use this whistleblowing policy instead of escalating the matter to a supervisor or above? (Please provide details (information provided may be anonymized))

Legal protection

14. In your jurisdiction, does legislation or regulation exist (e.g., under whistleblowing laws or regulations) that provides protection from civil, criminal, or professional liability, or from retaliation, when NOCLAR or suspected NOCLAR is disclosed to an appropriate authority? Please provide details.

If yes, is the protection under the relevant law and regulation perceived to be effective? Please explain your response.

15. From your perspective, what further efforts should IESBA pursue to enhance the effectiveness of implementation of the IESBA NOCLAR provisions globally? (Please explain your response)

16. Do you have any other comments or specific matters the IESBA should consider as part of this PIR on the IESBA NOCLAR provisions (including on any benefits arising from using the local NOCLAR provisions)?

Part G – Other Users or Beneficiaries of the Code

4. This section refers to the “local NOCLAR provisions” issued by the local professional accountancy organization, a regulator or the local standard setter responsible for promulgating ethics standards for PAPPs and/or PAIBs, where those local provisions are based on the NOCLAR provisions in the IESBA Code. Has implementation of the local NOCLAR provisions enhanced your confidence in professional accountants and accounting firms responding to NOCLAR or suspected NOCLAR? (Please explain your response)

Unknown. There is insufficient evidence to conclude that implementation of local NOCLAR provisions has consistently enhanced confidence in how professional accountants and accounting firms respond to NOCLAR or suspected NOCLAR.

The IESBA NOCLAR provisions establish a framework directing auditors, other PAPPs, and PAIBs in determining appropriate responses when they become aware of actual or suspected NOCLAR. However, there is limited empirical evidence demonstrating the extent to which this framework has influenced professional behavior, improved outcomes, or strengthened public confidence.

In many jurisdictions, little publicly available information exists regarding the number and nature of NOCLAR matters identified, how the provisions have been applied in practice, or whether implementation has resulted in more effective responses to non-compliance. Similarly, the absence of publicly available data on the nature and effectiveness of accounting firms’ internal responses to actual or suspected NOCLAR limits the ability to evaluate the extent to which the provisions are achieving their intended public interest outcomes or enhancing confidence in the profession.

Furthermore, any observed trends may also be influenced by a broad range of external factors that are unrelated to the NOCLAR provisions themselves. These include technological developments that create new opportunities for misconduct, increased financial and economic pressures, and changes in the effectiveness of regulatory oversight and enforcement. Such factors are likely to have a more significant impact on the occurrence of, and responses to, NOCLAR than the existence or application of the NOCLAR provisions alone.

5. From your perspective, what further efforts should IESBA pursue to enhance the effectiveness of implementation of the IESBA NOCLAR provisions globally? (Please explain your response)

IFAC is aware that the IESBA NOCLAR provisions have been among the more challenging aspects of the International Code for jurisdictions seeking to adopt or converge with it. Jurisdictions that have experienced difficulties during the adoption process, or that have not adopted the Code or the NOCLAR provisions, have cited a range of factors, including actual or perceived conflicts with local laws and regulations, as well as concerns regarding the length, complexity, and level of detail of the requirements.

IFAC encourages the IESBA to strengthen their engagement with national standard setters, regulators, and PAOs in these jurisdictions to better understand the practical barriers to adoption and implementation. This engagement could inform targeted actions to facilitate broader adoption and more consistent application globally.

IFAC would strongly support a review of the NOCLAR provisions with the objective of simplifying and streamlining them, including reducing their length, complexity, and granularity, while preserving the underlying public interest objectives. Such enhancements could facilitate broader adoption and greater consistency across jurisdictions.

Additionally, there is a close relationship between the IESBA's NOCLAR provisions and ISA 250 (Revised), Consideration of Laws and Regulations in an Audit of Financial Statements (ISA 250 (Revised)), as both address the responsibilities of auditors and professional accountants when they become aware of actual or suspected non-compliance with laws and regulations. While the standards serve different purposes, one establishes an ethical framework and the other sets auditing requirements, they address related circumstances and require professional judgment in responding to potential non-compliance.

Given the significant interaction and overlap between the NOCLAR provisions and ISA 250 (Revised), continued coordination and collaboration between the IESBA and IAASB would be valuable. Such collaboration can help ensure that the respective standards are aligned, avoid unintended inconsistencies, and support their consistent application in practice. It would also assist stakeholders in understanding how the ethical and auditing requirements operate together, particularly in areas involving professional judgment, confidentiality, communication, and public interest considerations.

The development of non-authoritative materials that explain the purpose and intended operation of the NOCLAR provisions in a more accessible manner, such as short videos, flowcharts and decision trees would be helpful. These materials could help professional accountants understand the framework as a whole and work through common judgment points. Such materials should clearly distinguish between a legal obligation to report, a disclosure that may be permitted or appropriate under the Code and reporting through a legally protected whistleblowing regime. They should also make clear that application of the Code must be considered alongside applicable local law and regulation and may require local legal advice.

6. In your jurisdiction, does legislation or regulation exist (e.g., under whistleblowing laws or regulations) that provides protection from civil, criminal, or professional liability, or from retaliation, when NOCLAR or suspected NOCLAR is disclosed to an appropriate authority? (Please provide details)

If yes, is the protection under the relevant law or regulation perceived to be effective? (Please explain your response)

IFAC is a global organization with members representing multiple jurisdictions across the world and therefore cannot provide a single jurisdictional response.

Across jurisdictions, legislative protections vary considerably. Some jurisdictions provide statutory protection through corporate, public-sector, taxation, anti-money laundering or general whistleblowing legislation. In other jurisdictions, professional accountants may have a legal obligation to report certain matters without an equivalent explicit protection.

Even where legal protections exist, the effectiveness of such protections is extremely difficult to assess. The applicability and extent of these protections in a single jurisdiction may vary depending on the nature of the entity concerned, including its size, whether it is publicly traded, privately held or partnership; the industry that the entity operates within; the type of service that is being provided, for example audit or taxation services; the type of misconduct reported; and whether the report is made internally, to a regulator, or through another channel prescribed by law.

Moreover, the existence of legislation does not necessarily mean that professional accountants feel adequately protected in practice. Concerns regarding retaliation, confidentiality, potential legal or professional consequences, uncertainty about the appropriate reporting channel, and whether the relevant authority will take effective action may continue to discourage reporting.

7. Do you have any other comments or specific matters the IESBA should consider as part of this PIR on the IESBA NOCLAR provisions?

The PIR process will need to acknowledge the inherent limitations of the available evidence. IFAC, many PAOs and other third parties do not receive information about NOCLAR matters because they are addressed internally within organizations or reported directly to regulators or other competent authorities. In addition, effective application of the NOCLAR provisions may prevent or resolve matters before external reporting becomes necessary. Accordingly, the absence of quantitative data should not be interpreted as being indicative of the framework being effective or not.

To supplement the survey findings, the IESBA should undertake targeted outreach with accounting firms, regulators, authorities that receive NOCLAR reports, and users of ethics hotlines and other support mechanisms. This would provide a more comprehensive understanding of implementation experience and practical challenges. However, it should be recognized that all responses are likely to rely, at least in part, on limited observations and perceptions rather than systematic evidence.

The publication of a clearer picture of global adoption, including the principal reasons for non-adoption or modified adoption may be helpful. This could provide important context for evaluating implementation and potentially help target future outreach and support. IFAC is currently working on enhancements to its Member Compliance Program, which is the primary mechanism used to gather data on adoption of the IESBA code around the world

Finally, IFAC considers that the NOCLAR provisions would benefit from rationalization. The provisions are lengthy and highly detailed and, in some areas, overlap with ISA 250 (Revised). Simplifying and streamlining the provisions, while maintaining their public interest objectives, would improve their usability and facilitate more consistent adoption and application across jurisdictions.
