This section refers to the “local NOCLAR provisions” issued by the local professional accountancy organization, a regulator or the local standard setter responsible for promulgating ethics standards for PAPPs and/or PAIBs, where those local provisions are based on the NOCLAR provisions in the IESBA Code. Has implementation of the local NOCLAR provisions enhanced your confidence in professional accountants and accounting firms responding to NOCLAR or suspected NOCLAR? (Please explain your response)

The local NOCLAR provisions have provided a clearer framework and stronger guidance for professional accountants dealing with actual or suspected non-compliance. However, it is difficult to conclude that they have significantly enhanced confidence in professional accountants and accounting firms without further evidence of consistent application, effective enforcement and observable changes in professional behaviour.

From your perspective, what further efforts should IESBA pursue to enhance the effectiveness of implementation of the IESBA NOCLAR provisions globally? (Please explain your response)

The main challenge appears to be implementation rather than the design of the NOCLAR provisions themselves. I suspect that IESBA's efforts might be most effective if directed towards promoting consistent adoption across jurisdictions, developing practical guidance and case studies, and gathering evidence on how the provisions are applied in practice and whether they have strengthened the public interest outcomes they were intended to achieve.

In your jurisdiction, does legislation or regulation exist (e.g., under whistleblowing laws or regulations) that provides protection from civil, criminal, or professional liability, or from retaliation, when NOCLAR or suspected NOCLAR is disclosed to an appropriate authority? (Please provide details)

If yes, is the protection under the relevant law or regulation perceived to be effective? (Please explain your response)

Yes. Portugal has adopted a whistleblower protection regime through Law No. 93/2021, which provides a meaningful level of protection against retaliation for individuals reporting actual or suspected misconduct in good faith. While the legal framework contributes to creating a safer environment for reporting, the extent to which it protects disclosures related to NOCLAR will depend on the specific circumstances and the applicability of the legal regime to the matter being reported

Do you have any other comments or specific matters the IESBA should consider as part of this PIR on the IESBA NOCLAR provisions?

The IESBA could consider engaging more actively with universities and researchers to promote academic work on NOCLAR-related topics. Greater research on how the provisions are applied in practice, the challenges encountered by professionals and their impact on public trust could provide valuable evidence to support future improvements to the Code. Academia can play an important role in addressing questions for which the profession currently lacks sufficient empirical evidence.
